Marshal Unit

Rules and Guidelines

The marshals to be used on the series will be organized by the Bridgestone event organizing team. However Bridgestone have nominated a marshal unit and will be the same unit used throughout the 2017 4x4 club challenge, they will be in control of the event and are impartial to all that attend.

Authority of the Marshal

All participants are guests at the marshal points and will be under the control of the specific marshal on duty. The Marshal will therefore instruct any team when to proceed and score their actions. The Marshal may stop any team, at any stage for safety reasons by means of blowing on a whistle, this means STOP IMMEDIATELY.

Marshals may not disqualify any member immediately without contacting the Clerk of course and Bridgestone organizer. The member to complete the obstacle, receive point, but will only be allocated upon final investigation in form of writing from competitor and marshal

Interferences

The Marshal may request any person to leave his marshaling area due to interferences or safety concerns. Safety area will be clearly marked and controlled by means of a banner tape setup up by the organizers.

Marshal Unit

Recoveries

Recoveries will be at the risk of the vehicle owner, the vehicle owner is responsible for his own recoveries needed throughout the 4x4 Club Adventure Series. The Marshal may offer assistance or request assistance from another team, depending on the degree of recovery required .

➤ Please note that some recoveries will only take place once the event has been completed.

Protests in the final

- Any team can protest, at a cost of R 1,000.00 cash, as long as the protest procedure is followed in a civilized manner as per the protest form.
- No verbal protest will be entertained.
- Protests are made in writing to the “Clerk of the course”.
- Protest will only be heard once the last participant has completed the track.
- A time limit of 30 minutes will be given after the last participant has finished to have submitted the written protest.
